Minneapolis

Tara is a member of the Family Law practice group practicing from the firm's Minneapolis office. She represents clients in several types of family law matters including divorce, custody and visitation, child support, spousal maintenance, and orders for protection.

Tara's previous experience working for the Presiding Judge of Hennepin County Family Court provided her with a valuable bench perspective she utilizes when advocating for her clients. Before joining DeWitt, Tara worked at a boutique family law firm where she successfully litigated a six-day contested custody and parenting time trial, and numerous other district court matters throughout the state. In addition to her litigation background, she prides herself on her strong problem-solving skills during negotiations outside of the courtroom. Tara offers her clients compassionate and creative solutions to help them transition to a new chapter of life.
